They became willing to pay for books, and this created and gave value to a great incorporeal estate--Literature. 90. A desire for Art, too, sprung up, and this created great estates in Art, either embodied in a material form, such as pictures and statues, or in an incorporeal form, such as music, and dancing, and acting, and so on down to its lowest forms. And so through the whole catalogue of trades and professions. It is the demand of the public which confers value on them. 91. Now each of these, the land, cattle, c., the law, the church, medicine, engineering, the army, the navy, literature, the arts, and all trades of all sorts, are each of them a great estate, all deriving their value...
