English-speaking races (amongst whom I should be ashamed not to include the United States) are objects for which it may be well worth while to make some sacrifice of such interests. But I am ready to take issue with the Commercial Federationists on this view of the question, and I challenge the advocates of Protection to show that the steps they urge will promote the harmony we both desire. I believe, on the contrary, that they will have a directly opposite effect. There is nothing so dangerous to friendly feeling as the consciousness of an obligation which is felt to be a daily cause of injury or loss. No wise men or women, and no wise communities, who desire to be on friendly terms with each other, will willingly involve themselves in any such obligations. Nor will they do so, if the conditions are such that the engagement, though possibly for the moment advantageous, will probably in the future become a burden. Now this is the case with all the schemes of Commercial Federation that have been suggested. They are all schemes of increased restriction, and this raises a prima facie case against them. Let us consider them in their application to particular cases; for it is thus alone that we can test them. England is asked to put a differential duty on foreign produce, i. e. , on food and raw materials, which is the produce of the United States and of other Foreign...
