Excerpt: . then the devil whispered in his ear to get rid of her. Well, said Sir Walter; what must be, must be. Come into my boat, and I ll row you across. And so she did; and when he got into the middle of the channel, he ketches her and throws her over into the salt sea. At the moment he heard a loud laugh, and soon after a noise like as if ten thousand cats were fighten. Terrified out of his life the knight rowed to shore, and hastened to his castle; but for the sowl of him he could get neither peace nor ease, for a guilty conscience is a troublesome companion. Next day, lest he should be suspected of the murder, he goes to Conagh s house, but found nothen there but an ould uglylooken black cat. Poor puss! says he. Mhau 1 says she, and cocking her tail, she follows him home and took her place by the fire. From that day out nothen was heard of the ould woman or her daughter; but whenever Sir Walter went out to catch rabbits on the burrow he saw a white cat, which met his eyes wherever he turned, and his gamekeeper tould him he often thought to kill her, but couldn t, though she was destroyen the rabbits. Of this, however, the Lord of Ballyteagh took no notice, but thought to make his peace with God by builden the church of...
